Student Job

We are currently looking for a python-programmer to strengthen our IT team in the department of Psychosocial Medicine and Developmental Neuroscience in the University Hospital Carl Gustav Carus. To get brand new info, join us on Instagram: @transdenlab & Twitter: @StefanEhrlich3

We conduct clinical research based on magnetic resonance images (functional and structural), genetic data, blood samples and behavioral data. Joining our team will give you the opportunity to put your knowledge into practice and get a first idea of what the challenges of a job in Data Science are. You will work in a fun, friendly and interdisciplinary team where everyone is eager to help and share their knowledge.

Requirements:

- You study Informatics, Physics, Mathematics (or similar)
- You have experience in object-oriented programming, particularly in Python, and are familiar with Unix shell-scripting
- You can work independently but also enjoy to collaborate with teammates
- You are interested in clinical research and thrilled to know how a person with a technical background can contribute

Weekly working time: 10 hours

Starting time: as soon as possible

If you have any questions, please contact us telephonically: (03 51) 458 15245.
If we have awaken your interest, please send your application (cover letter, CV with marks, if possible recommendation letters) per email to:
